

Various manufacturers – Supply of generic Tamiflu[®] (oseltamivir)

- The supply of generic Tamiflu \(oseltamivir\), used to treat influenza, is being monitored by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and American Society of Health-System Pharmacists (ASHP), who are working closely to share drug supply information.
- Although oseltamivir has experienced some supply disruptions, product is available from both brand and generic manufacturers. However, there may be periodic local outages of product in retail. Supply of other antiviral medications, including [Relenza[®] \(zanamivir\)](#) and [Xofluza[®] \(baloxavir marboxil\)](#) are available. Some manufacturers report that more supply of oseltamivir will be available late-December 2022.
- The CDC reports that seasonal influenza activity is elevated across the U.S, which is likely contributing to the supply disruption.

At Optum, we help create a healthier world, one insight, one connection, one person at a time. All Optum trademarks and logos are owned by Optum, Inc., in the U.S. and other jurisdictions. All other trademarks are the property of their respective owners. This document contains information that is considered proprietary to Optum Rx and should not be reproduced without the express written consent of Optum Rx. RxNews[®] is published by the Optum Rx Clinical Services Department.